

Julie Porter*

Julie Porter holds a Master's degree in Comparative Political Economy from Cardiff University. She is a research associate at the Centre for Advanced Studies, part of the Department of City and Regional Planning, where her research focuses on regional development, knowledge transfer and innovation. Simultaneously, Julie is finishing her PhD research in the School of Social Sciences (Cardiff University) on migration motivations and labor market studies. Through both outlets, Julie has taken advantage of the opportunity to design research programs for projects, lecture on research methods to undergraduates and acquire contacts at the national and international level. Julie is a member of the KIMERAA Atlantic Area research team.
