

Rosa Maria Delli Quadri

PhD. in “History of Modern and Contemporary Europe; institutions, economy, society and relational systems”, at University of Naples “L’Orientale”. She has a research grant in Economic History at University of Magna Graecia of Catanzaro. At present, she’s studying Mediterranean history through reports and correspondence of the British diplomats residing at Naples in the age of Restoration, and through the surveys of American and British travellers who, during the first half of XIX century, decided to discover Southern Italy and the Mediterranean, widening the paths of the XVIII century Grand Tour. Among her publications: (ed. by) G. Mazzini, Imprese di penna, (Napoli, 2002); F. Canale Cama, D. Casanova, R.M. Delli Quadri, Il Mediterraneo moderno e contemporaneo, (Napoli, 2009, 137-293). In printing: Napoleone, Murat e i francesi: testimonianze inglesi nel Regno, in Tra Europa e Mediterraneo. Il Regno di Napoli nel sistema imperiale napoleonico, ed. by R.M. Delli Quadri (Avellino); Percezioni inglesi, direzioni napoletane: Napoli nelle carte del Foreign Office (1815-1840), in “Rivista Italiana di Studi Napoleonici”, ed. by the Centro Nazionale di Studi Napoleonici e di Storia dell’Elba-Portoferraio; Tra Napoli e il Levante nella prima metà dell’Ottocento: uno sguardo americano, ed. by Malta University Press.
